

Disciplinary rules

Employers are free to set disciplinary penalties in the private sector. These can range from written notice to warning employees of temporary suspension and termination.

The disciplinary sanction should take into account the severity of the violation. The sanctions should also be clarified to the employees. Sanctions can only be imposed after an investigation, and the employer has been heard.