

Gender equality and discrimination

The labour law also has rules to prevent discrimination in the workplace.

There is a Law on Equal Wages and Salaries for Men and Women that guarantees both genders should have equal job opportunities. Men and women also need to receive the same pay for their work. The law on equal wages was established in 2018.